From the Board President

Chris Lenois

No doubt this past year will be remembered mainly for the departure of Roland Boyden, BCTV's production manager for the past 12+ years. His efforts contributed mightily to the station's stellar reputation, both locally and nationally, and it was so great to see that acknowledged by the large turnout of community members at his farewell party. We must remember that, earlier in the year, Jeff Mastroianni also moved on to another organization after pioneering the role of Content Manager at the station.

Nevertheless, staff stability remains one of the chief reasons that BCTV continues to be a strong organization. Executive Director Cor Trowbridge and Operations Manager Vlasta Popelka are both into their second decade of service, which makes it all the easier to integrate newcomers like Content Manager Nolan Edgar (who recently celebrated one year on staff) and Brian Bashaw, who is already proving to be a very worthy successor to Roland.

Strong personnel frees up the board to think proactively about how we can positively impact the organization. This year, that included a comprehensive review and update of policies in BCTV's Employee Handbook, with a particular focus on updating benefits like paid time-off and ensuring our use of language that reflects the inclusivity we value in a workplace.

If employees and volunteers are the lifeblood of a public access station, then equipment must surely be its vital organs. The board approved expenditures to upgrade the video editing suites, among other capital investments. We appreciate everyone who took the time to provide feedback about what was needed to Cor and her staff.

BCTV also enjoyed terrific media exposure in 2018 thanks to Marty Cohn, who joined the board last year and stepped right into the PR role previously handled by Lynn Barrett. (Lynn had to rotate off after serving three consecutive terms.) We will continue to make raising awareness about the programming and services of BCTV provides a priority, and are grateful for Marty's energy and expertise on this front.

We hope to see you all at the annual meeting and producer awards party. Both are great opportunities to talk in-person with us about ideas, ask questions, or share concerns. Of course, we welcome the opportunity to hear from you at any time. Thank you for all you do to support this vital community resource.

Board President Chris Lenois and Executive Director Cor Trowbridge at the 2017 Producer Awards Party.

From the Executive Director Cor Trowbridge

This fiscal year was dominated by highs and lows, hellos and goodbyes - goodbye to Roland Boyden, and hello to high engagement with and recognition of BCTV.

In January, we were asked to record 'Windham County's Got Talent' at the Latchis Theatre, and to stream it on Facebook Live. Organizers asked audience members to share it from their seats, and by the end of the concert there were 162 shares and 17,000 views. In February, we covered the Harris Hill Ski Jump with USA Nordic, and received 17,000 views on both event days. In June, our Strolling of the Heifers Parade video had 12,000 views, compared to 1000 views from previous years. The convergence of adequate internet speeds and this technology means that BCTV's live programming can reach a much wider audience, and that builds awareness of what we do, something BCTV has struggled with in the past.

On May 30, the entire BCTV family turned out to thank Roland Boyden for his 12+ years of extraordinary contributions to our station before he left for his new home in Philadelphia.

In the midst of this excitement, our long time Production Manager, Roland Boyden, who came on staff as a 17-year-old in 2006, announced that he'd be moving away. Soon after, we learned that the outreach video he created, 'Surprise! There's a TV Station in Brattleboro,' had won a national award and that BCTV had been named Winner of the 2018 Overall Excellence Award for stations in our budget category by the Alliance for Community Media. It was the second time we've won, and it was especially meaningful as an acknowledgement of the capacity that Roland built at the station.

On the funding side, Comcast revenues from local subscribers, our main revenue source, took a sharp downturn as "cable cord-cutting" hit our bottom line. Though interest in BCTV coverage of events and meetings is stronger than ever, even when we send a staff producer, what we charge for this type of service reflects a fraction of the actual cost to provide it.

In the coming year, with our new(ish) staff members Nolan Edgar and Brian Bashaw keeping the technical side of the organization running smoothly, and with veteran Vlasta Popelka keeping track of operations, I will work with the board to figure out a sustainable way that we can provide the best possible service, given the new media landscape.

Finally, I want to congratulate Jeff Mastroianni, our former Content Manager, for being named Director of Media Technology at Amherst Media, and Roland for his position as Access Facilitator at PhillyCam. BCTV is proud to be a training ground for careers in the field of community media.

Treasurer's Report

Martin Langeveld

After years of knowing that “cable cord-cutting” would negatively impact our cable revenues, that trend has finally hit BCTV's bottom line. Comcast's revenues declined sharply this fiscal year. Increasing alternative sources of revenue, such as donations, production fees, and sponsorships, will be critical to fill the gap and keep the organization growing to meet the demand for services.

Members

BCTV had 80 individual members join or renew in FY18. Anyone who resides, works, attends school, or volunteers for a nonprofit in Windham County may become a member of BCTV and create local programs with BCTV's equipment and technical support.

Organizational Members

This year's nonprofit memberships represent 40 individuals who used BCTV to promote their nonprofit mission. Nonprofit organizations having an office in and serving Windham County residents may join BCTV as organizational, non-voting members. Annual benefits include one staff-produced studio or on-site production as well as access to BCTV's equipment and training.

Crewing for BCTV productions	123
Board of Directors	400
Producing: Field Work	1732
Producing: Editing	3062
Producing: Studio	948
Total Hours	6,265

Al New uploads his recording of St. Michael's Mass each week in time for same-day viewing. He also produces the Five Mics Songwriters' Series.

Volunteers and Interns

The volunteers listed below contributed to BCTV by serving on the board or a committee, being a crew member, hosting studio interviews, or providing commentary for live events. Interns work on our news show, edit “orphan projects,” digitize archives, operate cameras, and create their own projects.

BUHS intern Aiden Meyer stepped up to direct 30+ episodes of Wendy O'Connell's weekly talk show, "Here We Are." His internship made it possible for her new show to launch.

Video Production Training

BCTV offers training year-round on an individual basis for Camera Basics, Introduction to Digital Editing, and Studio Production. This has proven to be the most effective because instructors can tailor the training for experience and learning style, and because it eliminates scheduling conflicts. Trainees have staff support at BCTV as they work on their project.

Production Manager Roland Boyden trains Billy Ernest to use BCTV's camera gear.

Year	# Trainings (individual & group)	Total Certified
16-17	26	26
17-18	16	26

Youth Video Camp

This summer's week-long Video & Tech Camp hosted 13 youth videomakers aged 9-12 who produced a 'Variety Show' of short movies, such as "My Granny is a Spy??" with a team of energetic and knowledgeable counselors. When they weren't shooting scenes in the jail cell in the Municipal Center basement (!), they learned camera skills, video editing, audio, special effects, stop-motion animation and green screening.

The steps of the Municipal Center are always part of the action at video camp. Counselor Ezlerh Oreste and camper Malika record a scene from "Two Villains."

Sam and Eli edit their video, "Bad Weather Report."

Equipment & Facilities

BCTV's camera kits for field production feature the Canon Vixia, Canon XA10 and Canon XA20. We now have a few DSLR kits (Canon 80D, Panasonic GH2, Sony RX10), one with interchangeable lenses, for staff and producer use.

BCTV's studio is used daily by staff and volunteers. Here Kate O'Connor interviews Rep. Peter Welch on 'Meet the Candidates.'

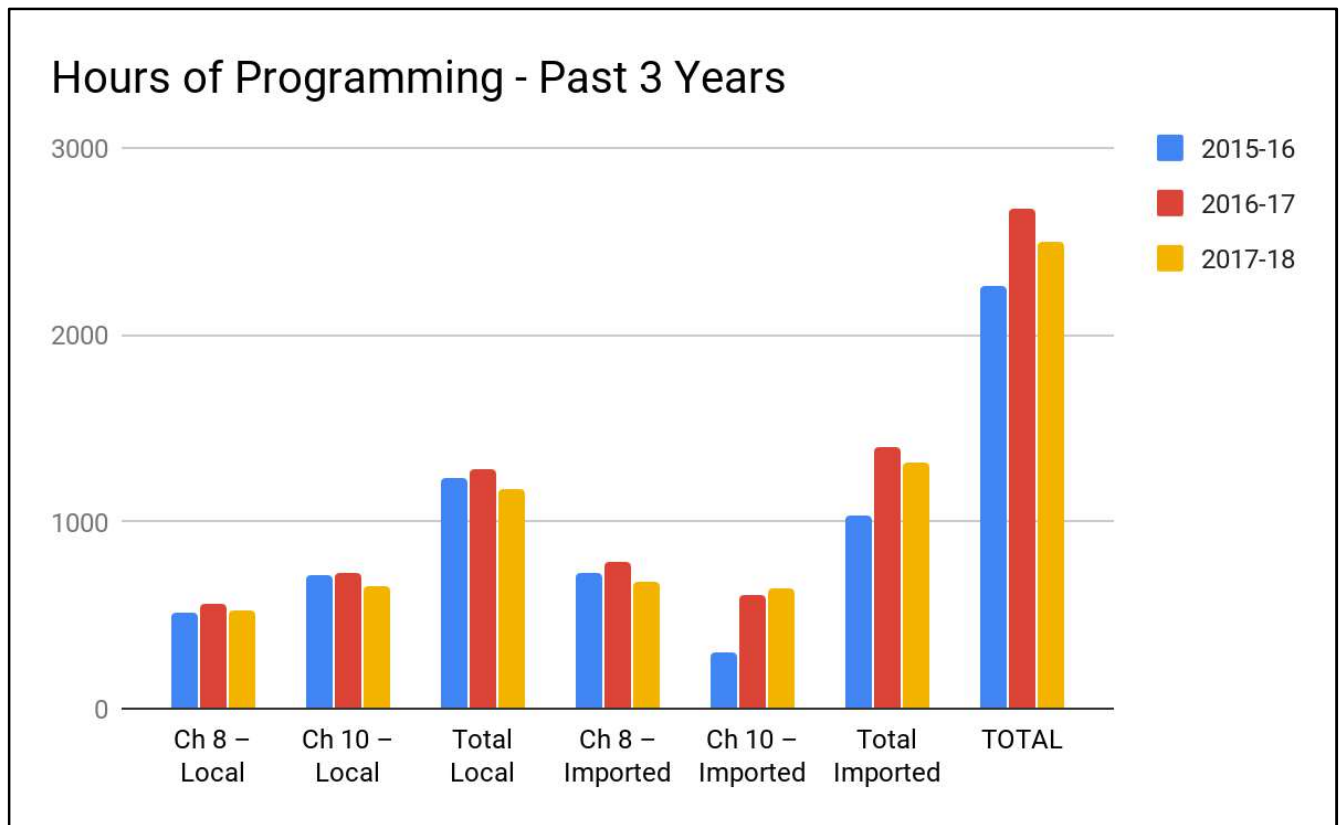

Maria Dominguez uses the Canon XA10 to produce over 50 shows per year for community organizations.

Programming Hours

On average, BCTV produces close to 1200 hours of local content annually, which is equivalent to the output of much larger stations. Overall programming hours decreased this year, though locally-created programs continue to constitute approximately half of what you see on BCTV, measured both by duration (hours and minutes) and by count (number of programs). Vermont Media Exchange is BCTV’s primary source of imported programming, which carries programs produced by community media stations across Vermont and shared through a statewide (and national) network.
